

Madonna cleans up her act for dad

New York - Pop singer Madonna cleaned up her act for her father Tony Ciccone when he attended one of her concerts.

According to newsweek.com, Madonna, who is on her Confessions tour, has repeatedly used the f-word, flipped her middle finger at the crowd, reached into her pants and even suggested that people perform a lewd act on President George W. Bush. But at a recent show in Chicago Madonna toned it down for her father.

A source said: 'She gave the crowd the finger only one time and never once said the f-word, at one point, she actually asked the audience to applaud extra loud for her so that her dad would know she made something of herself. The crowd went wild.'
