

Doctor's wife commits suicide in Noida

A doctor's wife committed suicide Friday by hanging herself at her home in Noida, a police official said.

Subhra, 27, was found hanging from a beam fitted over the main gate of her sector-12 house by her husband, Deepak Chaudhary, who works at the ESI hospital in Noida.

The body has been sent for post-mortem examination.

According to Chaudhary, when he woke up this morning, he found his wife hanging from the beam.

The police informed her parents in Uttarakhand.

Senior Superintendent of Police Noida R.K. Chaturvedi said: 'Since there was a rift in the family, it seems to be a case of abetment to suicide. We are waiting for the arrival of her parents from Uttarakhand.'
