

Now Annie Lennox linked to Bond theme

Singer Annie Lennox is the latest artist linked to the next James Bond movie's title song.

Thesun.co.uk reports that the Bond movie 'Quantum Of Solace' will be out in October, but the artists still don't know if they will get to create the title music for the movie.

Amy Winehouse and Leona Lewis were considered and the rock band Duran Duran also showed interest. And now Lennox seems to get into the ring and producer Mark Ronson is ready to work with anyone.

Usually artists submit their tracks and the Bond executives pick their favourite. But others like Winehouse and Lewis were approached directly.

There have been numerous twists and turns this year with no clear favourite emerging.
