

Navjot Sidhu's debut movie's music released

Cricketer, commentator, MP and now actor -- Navjot Singh Sidhu's debut movie's music was released Friday here.

Sidhu will be sharing screen space with Punjabi singer and actor Harbhajan Mann in 'Mera pind-My home', slated to release in September.

Music of the movie and a microsite was released here Friday. The microsite will offer an array of features for the users like ringtones, wallpapers, downloads, information about the cast and crew of the movie and caller tunes.

'My life is based on experiments and I have tried my hands at infinite things. But I have no qualms in saying that this experiment of acting was the best one of my life,' Sidhu told media persons during the music launch here Friday.

'I did not know anything about the acting and dialogue delivery but I learnt it only on the sets from other cast members,' he said.

'I am ready to do more Punjabi films in future, but the only condition is that they should portray meaningful and responsible cinema. Films are the best medium to diffuse any social message in the society and have the capacity to bring unexpected positive changes. I believe in becoming master of all trades and jack of none,' said Sidhu.

The movie is produced and directed by Punjabi film maker Manmohan Singh.

Sidhu is playing the role of a rich fun loving non-resident Indian (NRI) settled in a small village of Punjab who brings in the spirit of self-empowerment among the villagers of his village, said Manmohan Singh.

(© IANS / India eNews)