

Boyzone to pay tribute to late band member

The boy band Boyzone is set to release a tribute to late band member Stephen Gately which will feature him singing the lead vocals.

Band mate Ronan Keating is planning to remix the song to showcase Gately's voice, thesun.co.uk reports. He said: 'We have voice files and can move things to allow him to shine more. It's going to be the biggest song of next year, I promise. We're doing it for Stephen, his fans, his family and for us as a band. He had the voice of an angel.'

Keating revealed these plans while he was on a promotional tour in Australia.
