

Britney Spears throws tantrums at rehab

There is more drama in troubled pop star Britney Spears' life even inside the rehabilitation centre where she is undergoing therapy for drug addiction.

She screams and hollers at the workers there and makes demands for different foods, reports www.hollywood.tv.

A source said: 'She has been lashing out at her rehab facility, demanding special food and refusing to pick up after herself. She likes to get her way for everything. She does not see herself as a maid, so she demanded one.'

The latest on Spears, who was reportedly forced into rehab against her wish, is that, fellow singer Justin Timberlake is planning to bring her back to the number one slot.
